Brilliant.

Business and IT industry watchers recognize what Intel employees already know: This is one terrific place
 for all talented people to work.

Fortune's "100 Best" leads Intel's honors for progressive workplace standards

The leading example: Intel is featured in Fortune magazine's 2011 list of "100 Best Companies to Work For." Ranked at No. 51 for its plan to create thousands of new jobs in the next three years, Intel is embarking on more than $6 billion in new projects. Intel climbed 47 places from the previous year's list.

We're also recognized for diversity by a host of other industry publications and organizations, including these recent honors:

- Diversity Employers magazine - No. 16 in Top 100
- Universum employer branding company - No. 91 (14 for engineering)
- Experience - Among the best places to work for RCGs
- Corporate Quality Index - 100%
